BLACK WOMEN'S INTERNATIONAL FILM & VIDEO FESTIVAL

INKANYEZI YOBUSUKU (NIGHT STAR), Director Kekeletso Khena
(South Africa 2007, 13 min.)

Traditionally, Zulu women were barred from household chores during menstruation, and the maidens were isolated in the girls hut, a time for rest and contemplation called Ukuya Enyangeni (going to the moon). Lindiwe's dreams are disturbed by her desire for the Amaqhikiza, her guide during this time.

KEKELETSO KHENA

Kekeletso Khena is a 29-year-old writer, poet, LGBTI activist and an aspirant filmmaker whose passion for storytelling is intertwined with the need to facilitate the socio-political discourse of marginalized women. Following the Out In Africa South African Gay & Lesbian Film Festival workshop, where the Night Star was created, Keke entered film school.
